

President Plans Additional Talks In Behalf Nixon

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—President Eisenhower, stepping up his activities in behalf of the Nixon-Lodge ticket, will address a political rally in Philadelphia next Friday evening. His speech will be carried nationwide on television.

The White House announced this Sunday just 24 hours after the President's disclosure that he will speak at a Republican rally in New York Nov. 2.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the GOP presidential candidate, and his running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge, also will address at the New York rally.

That rally, too, will be on TV coast-to-coast.

Replying to questions at a news conference, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty shot back "No" when asked whether Eisenhower's decision to make speeches in New York and Philadelphia reflected Republican concern over the chances of the Nixon-Lodge ticket for victory in the Nov. 8 election.

Planned Before

Hagerty added he had said "three months ago" that Eisenhower would be making several speeches on behalf of the GOP ticket, and that details would be announced later.

The President's Philadelphia speech will fall during Sen. John F. Kennedy's longest campaign appearance in Pennsylvania. The Democratic presidential nominee will come to the state Thursday night and stay through Monday. He will be in Philadelphia Saturday, arriving the morning after the President's speech.

Nixon, who campaigned in greater Philadelphia Saturday, came back Monday for a whistle-stop tour through central and western sections. Lodge will be in Philadelphia Wednesday.

A reporter asked how Eisenhower feels about the chances of Nixon and Lodge as the campaign goes into the home stretch.

"He has not changed from the beginning," Hagerty replied. "He thinks Mr. Nixon and Mr. Lodge will be the next president and the next vice president of the United States."

"Eisenhower is getting in a week-end of golf and relaxation at this southern California resort spot before resuming his cross-country speaking tour Monday morning. The White House has billed this trip non-political, but there has been a charge from the camp of Sen. John F. Kennedy, Democratic presidential nominee, that the tour is a partisan Eisenhower effort on behalf of Nixon."

20 Minute Talk

The President's speech in Philadelphia Friday evening will be at the Bellevue Stratford Hotel—at a rally sponsored by Volunteers for Nixon and Lodge. His 20-minute speech will be carried on the ABC-TV network, starting at 7:30 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

With the Philadelphia and New York speeches set, Eisenhower will be making his major effort of the campaign in states with big electoral vote blocs. Pennsylvania has 32, and New York's bloc of 45 is the largest in the nation. It has already been announced that Eisenhower will make a nationwide TV and radio address for Nixon and Lodge Nov. 7, election eve. The President probably will speak from Washington.

Drivers Need Vision Aids

HARRISBURG (AP)—State police tests showed that 585 of 1,733 state employees who drive for the Commonwealth needed vision correction or treatment, Commissioner Frank G. McCartney reports.

McCartney made the report Saturday after state police completed the first month of vision tests on employees who use private or state-owned cars on Commonwealth business.

The tests were made as part of Gov. David L. Lawrence's physical reexamination program. Other parts of the physical examination are made by private physicians.

One 18-year-old office worker was browsing through Chalmers' selection of moustaches. He tried on a big bushy one like an army major wear, then muttered, "Doesn't suit my face."

Finally he settled on a sort of Clark Gable style, saying, "This is far better—gives me a bit of class."

Whiskers vary in price, but a passable set costs less than a dollar. A tube of sticky stuff to put them on with costs about 21 cents.

One boy came into Chalmers' store, dragged along on the arm of his girl friend.

"I think he's got a weak chin," she explained. "He tried growing a real beard but it didn't look right so I made him shave it off."

Together they selected a prim Van Dyke. The boy guffawed it into his pocket. The girl friend looked pleased.

Absentee Vote To Set New Record

LONDON (AP)—The Nixon-Kennedy presidential contest to be decided Tuesday, Nov. 8, has stirred up the American population in Europe to the extent that absentee voting may be at an all-time high.

U.S. Embassy officials from London to Ankara report an unusual interest in the campaign. There are just about a million Americans in this part of the world, eligible to vote by mail. All they have to do is get an absentee voting ballot from their home registration district, fill it out and mail it. In the case of civilians, the U.S. consuls take care of it. In the armed forces, an officer is responsible.

Around the world are three million Americans with the right to vote. Four years ago less than a third of them bothered. But U.S. authorities say this time there will be a great deal more. In London at least half the eligibles are reported standing up to be counted.

Sen. John F. Kennedy's campaign manager for absentee voters, John A. Ryan of San Francisco, predicted a 60 per cent turnout. He made his remark in Berlin, where he stopped on a tour designed to steam up pro-Kennedy sentiment in various outposts.

A large part of Europe's American population is in Germany—about 300,000. Kennedy forces prevailed on Judy Garland to fight a cold and fly from London to "sing to the boys." Judy said she would go there Wednesday to sing at armed forces' bases and throw a pitch in for "a friend." She said she was recruited by Kennedy's sister Pat, who is married to British actor Peter Lawford.

Strange, New Falsie Craze Hits Britain

LONDON (AP)—A strange new falsie craze is sweeping Britain. Young men are buying fake beards for evening wear.

Unlike girls who have other types of falsies on a fairly permanent basis, the beard addicts go in for whiskers as a one-night stand.

Many girls are finding it a ticklish business discovering whether their boy friends' moustaches are the real thing or not. Stage makeup suppliers in several British cities report a sudden rush for whiskers—van dykes, moustaches, sideburns. The buyers are mostly young men.

"They say a beard makes them feel good," said a Manchester theatrical dealer, "but they can't grow their own because their bosses would object."

"I've had to order double my normal supply of beards and moustaches," said Adam Chalmers, makeup manager of a Glasgow stage supplier. "They're going like hot cakes."

One 18-year-old office worker was browsing through Chalmers' selection of moustaches. He tried on a big bushy one like an army major wear, then muttered, "Doesn't suit my face."

Finally he settled on a sort of Clark Gable style, saying, "This is far better—gives me a bit of class."

Nixon May Okay 5th Debate; Kennedy Studies New Move

Counter Offer By Rivals Is Being Tested

WITH KENNEDY IN WISCONSIN (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy Sunday night took a long step toward meeting proposals for a fifth face-to-face television debate with Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Still to be determined was whether such a debate should be confined, as Nixon suggested, to the Castro regime in Cuba and what the United States should do about it.

Kennedy, who has been pressing Nixon to agree to a fifth debate, dispatched his television advisor, Leonard Reinsch, to Washington for talks with the Nixon staff.

The Kennedy camp would not say flatly that it had accepted Nixon's counterproposal for a fifth debate.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger put it this way:

"Mr. Nixon has accepted our challenge for a fifth debate and has attempted to place conditions on it. What we are doing now is discussing those conditions."

The sudden break in the stalemate argument over an additional face-to-face meeting came as Kennedy was pounding the Eisenhower administration with the charge that they have no real policy on disarmament but "a consistent history of indifference and failure in this field."

Kennedy jabbed at Nixon all day in a campaign sweep through Wisconsin, citing what he called failures in farm policy and other domestic and foreign issues.

The debate issue came to the fore when Nixon sent Kennedy a long critical telegram, which, however, said a debate on Cuba would be useful.

Kennedy shot back an equally bristling reply and put the negotiations in motion.

In one of his strongest attacks on the administration and Nixon, Kennedy said:

1. "In the past eight years, this problem (disarmament) has been virtually ignored. We have had no real disarmament policy. We have completely failed to provide the effort and the leadership which the pursuit of disarmament demands."

2. Men without experience, or proper preparation, were selected to represent the United States at three conferences on disarmament. Kennedy quoted one of them as saying, "I doubt that we have up to this time really given the intense study to measures which will make prevention of surprise attack possible."

3. "The panel on political issues" will be held today at 8 p.m. in Court Room One of the Monroe County Court House at which time six attorneys of Monroe County, three Democrats and three Republicans, will voice their parties' views on questions submitted by the public.

Mrs. Marcia DeRocco, president of the Stroudsburg League of Women Voters and moderator of the discussion, said that, "Each party will be given equal time on the questions asked."

"Also Van D. Yetter and Hanford Cleveland will be present and each man will make a three-minute speech on their platform and political views."

A question and answer period during which the audience will be given an opportunity to participate will follow the talks. The public is invited to attend.

U. S. Must Make Tough Decision Over Mobutu

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Col. Joseph Mobutu seems about to force the United States to a hard choice that could prove fateful for the United Nations operation in the Congo.

That choice is whether to come out in open support of Mobutu, switch to some other contender for power in that country or adopt a policy of neutrality toward all contenders.

Mobutu took over in an army coup in mid-September, after President Joseph Kasavubu and Premier Patrice Lumumba fired each other. Mobutu installed a caretaker government of college graduates with the avowed aim of giving the two time to become reconciled.

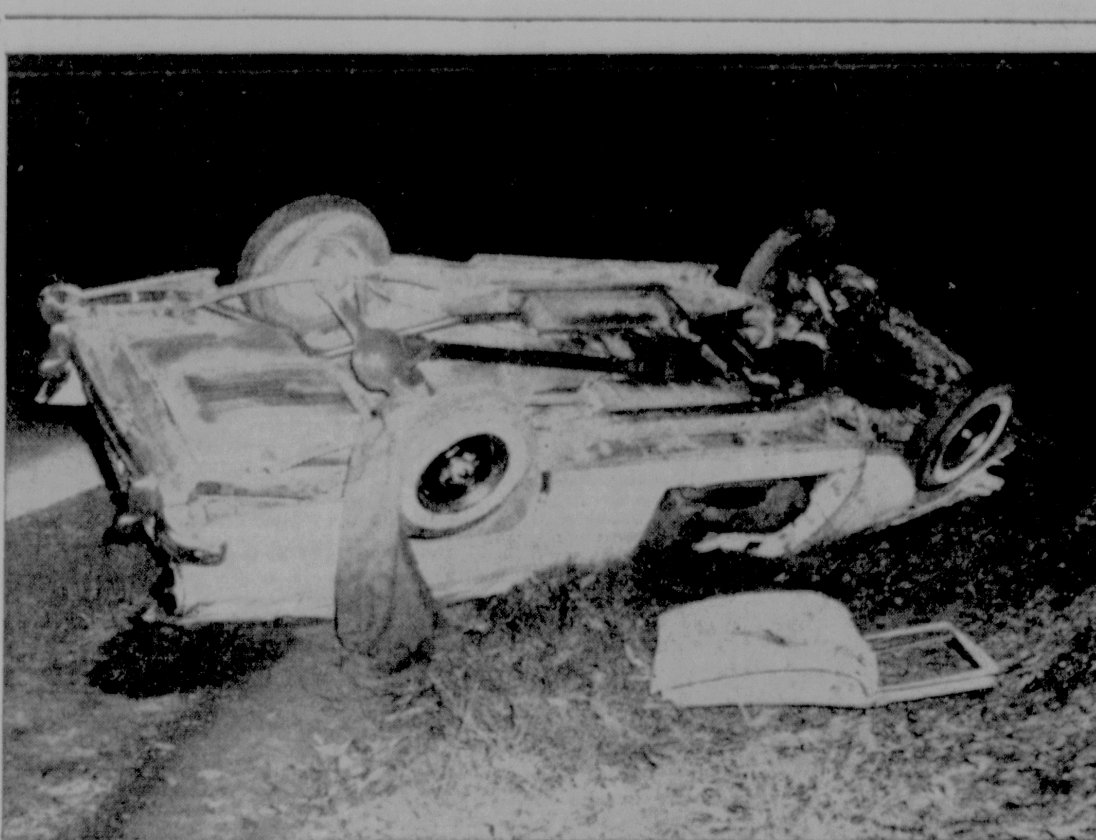

But he could not get recognition from Rajeshwar Dayal of India, top U.N. representative in the Congo. He finally complained, "The United Nations wants to get me out."

To See Dag

Saturday he said he was through talking to Dayal and was coming over to talk to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and the U.S. government. He plans to leave Leopoldville Tuesday. Mobutu said he would seek support from Hammarskjöld and the United States.

One African diplomat remarked on hearing this: "He's been backed by the United States all along."

But the backing has been private and off the record. Mobutu wants it public and on the record.

Young Driver Killed When Car Overturns

RONALD D. Edelman, 18, of Main St., Tatamy, was killed instantly at 12:50 a.m. Saturday when the car he was driving rolled over on Legislative Route 45004 approximately two miles west of Saylorsburg.

Three passengers, Larry Heckman, 19, of Bath RD 2; Robert Edelman, Bath RD 2; and Robert Fehnel, 17, Bethlehem, climbed from the overturned car without a scratch or a bruise.

Edelman was traveling west at the time of the accident and was on the highway on the right side of the highway on a 13-foot shoulder.

He drove the car approximately 110 feet on the shoulder and then attempted to bring it back on the highway, one of the passengers told police.

State police investigating the accident said, "It appears that Edelman in his attempt to bring the car back on the highway approached at too great an angle and when the car came on the highway it (the car) swerved sharply, causing it to roll."

"The car rolled over several times and ended on the left side of the highway on its roof headed almost in the direction it came from."

Police estimated the damage at $1,200.

Edelman was thrown from the car. Coroner Daniel G. Warner said he was dead of a fractured skull on arrival at Monroe County General Hospital.

He was born in Tatamy, the son of Wilson D. and Margaret Miller Edelman. His father is police chief in Tatamy.

Young Edelman was graduated from Nazareth Area High School in 1959. He was employed at Nazareth Mills, Inc., Nazareth, and was a member of St. Peter's United Church of Christ, Tatamy.

Besides his parents, surviving are a sister Jean, wife of Sherwood Kneebone, Easton RD 2, and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Miller of Nazareth.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the F. W. Schmidt Mortuary, Nazareth.

Mexican Town 'Spruces Up' For Visit By Senor Ike

CIUDAD ACUNA, Mexico (AP)—The meeting Monday between President Eisenhower and President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico may set some sort of record for brevity. But this border town with its muddy streets is sprucing up for it anyway.

All bars, honky-tonks and liquor stores so familiar to Mexican border visitors will be closed during Eisenhower's 2½-hour visit, billed as a friendship trip to mark the 150th anniversary of Mexican independence.

Eisenhower is due to cross the bridge over the Rio Grande from Del Rio, Tex., at 12:45 p.m. Monday. The President and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter are scheduled to meet with Lopez and Mexican Foreign Minister Manuel Tello for 30 minutes.

One soldier also was reported killed. Details of the incident were confused and unconfirmable. Access to the area was barred by soldiers in an ugly mood.

The United States has been giving discreet aid and advice to Congolese diplomats who came to New York for Kasavubu and who lately have been handling communications that originated with Mobutu. If it now should drop Mobutu, it could ease the way to a comeback by Lumumba, over the opposition of Kasavubu. But if it should stick with him, it might find itself backing a loser and on the outs with the winner, because Lumumba seems to be gaining strength.

If it should come out for Mobutu against Lumumba, it would be coming out for a man who got power through military force—against a man who got power by vote of an elected parliament, even though the legality of his mandate has been questioned. This could lay the United States open once more to the old criticism that while it talks against dictatorship, it supports dictators when they are friendly.

New Pressure

If the United States should urge the United Nations to support Mobutu, this would put new pressure on Hammarskjöld—who is already under pressure from the Soviets ran off the right side of the highway on a 13-foot shoulder. He drove the car approximately 110 feet on the shoulder and then attempted to bring it back on the highway, one of the passengers told police.

State police investigating the accident said, "It appears that Edelman in his attempt to bring the car back on the highway approached at too great an angle and when the car came on the highway it (the car) swerved sharply, causing it to roll."

Will Arrange His Schedule Veep Asserts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon Sunday night indicated a willingness to have a fifth TV debate with Sen. John F. Kennedy limited primarily to the question of how to deal with the Castro regime in Cuba.

Kennedy said he would "be pleased to discuss the whole record of Cuba" with Nixon but left in doubt the question of another debate between them.

Nixon—in a telegram to Kennedy—said he would try to get in time for another debate "if I believe it would serve a constructive public purpose."

This ostensibly would be an airing of the two men's diverging views on the Fidel Castro regime and how to cope with it.

Nixon said the course of action suggested by Kennedy "is recklessly dangerous." It invites potential intervention by Soviet Russia on the side of the Castro government and thus "could lead to World War III."

Kennedy has called for United States aid to "fighters for freedom" in exile and inside Cuba who are seeking to overthrow Castro's regime.

Nixon, Republican presidential nominee, favors an "economic and political quarantine" of the Castro government.

Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, said in Milwaukee that "we consider they have accepted our challenge to a fifth debate but are trying to put a condition on it. What we are doing now is discussing that condition."

In a telegraphed reply to Nixon, Kennedy said the Nixon message "clearly indicates I was right in calling for such a debate—for the distortions of the record concerning my position on Cuba exceed any others you have made during this campaign."

Kennedy insisted "I have never advocated and do not now advocate intervention in Cuba in violation of our treaty obligations."

What he does advocate, he said, is "that we use all available communications—radio, television and the press—and the moral power of the American government to let the forces of freedom in Cuba know that we believe that freedom will again rise in that country."

Nixon said the course of action proposed by Kennedy clearly violates the United States government's solemn commitments to the United Nations and the Organization of American States not to intervene in the internal affairs of other member nations.

The vice president also said Kennedy's proposals would alienate "sister American republics whose friendship you have acknowledged is of vital importance to our efforts against communism."

Nuclear Pact

The tabloid Sunday Graphic reported Britain has been given blueprints and technical details of the missile.

vichyssoise, steak, salad and ice cream. The mayor of Ciudad Acuna will give Eisenhower the keys to the city, and the President plans to leave for the United States at 3:15 p.m.

Eisenhower and Lopez Mateos probably will issue a joint statement emphasizing "amistad"—friendship—which is the theme of this third meeting between the two chief executives.

The location is near the site of the projected Rio Grande dam which, at Eisenhower's suggestion, is to be called "Friendship Dam" instead of by its original title of "Devil's Dam."

Eisenhower's reception in this tourist town of 18,000 people promised to be both cordial and informal. Posters placed in store and office windows show a nice blend of respect and fondness. They say: "Welcome, Senor Presidente Ike."

Demos Holding Buldge In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats are holding a big buldge over the Republicans in the stretch drive for 34 Senate seats at stake in the Nov. 8 voting.

Outcome of the race between Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy for president could cut sharply the 66-34 margin the Democrats now have over their opponents. But whatever happens, Democrats seem sure to keep control.

In ten doubtful states a sweep by either Nixon or Kennedy might carry along his party's senatorial candidate. In such states Democrats now hold Senate seats in Delaware, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, Oregon, West Virginia and Wyoming; Republicans in Colorado, Idaho and Iowa.

The Democrats have 42 seats that are not up this year while the Republicans have only 24 holdovers. Thus the Democrats need only nine to tilt the bare majority mark of 51 while the Republicans would have to pick up 27.

But the Democrats appear to have 10 surefire winners in the South and these would put them one beyond the required number. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic vice presidential nominee who is running also for re-election to the Senate, is one of this Southern group.

Despite their optimistic predictions that Nixon will make inroads into the South, including Texas, Republicans have little hope of defeating Johnson and nine of his party colleagues.

Sens. John Sparkman of Alabama, John L. McClellan of Arkansas and Richard B. Russell of Georgia have no opposition in states where Kennedy is given the edge in the latest surveys. Sen. Strom Thurmond is unopposed in South Carolina, where Nixon is credited with a lead.

In states where the Kennedy-Nixon contest outcome is regarded as a tossup, Democratic Sens. James O. Eastland of Mississippi, B. Everett Jordan of North Carolina and Estes Kefauver of Tennessee are billed as almost certain winners.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender is riding ahead of what looks like a Kennedy lead in Louisiana. Sen. A. Willis Robertson has only token opposition in Virginia, which might go to Nixon.

Outside the South, some Democratic incumbents look like winners at this point, despite indications that their states either are doubtful or leaning to Nixon.

These include Sens. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma.

Republicans have five incumbents who are given the edge in states where Nixon is reported to be leading. They include Sens. Andrew F. Schoepel of Kansas, Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, Styles Bridges of New Hampshire and Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota.

Two Republicans are credited now with a chance to buck a Kennedy tide in their states. They are Sens. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey and Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts.

In doubtful Kentucky, GOP Sen. John Sherman Cooper is reported ahead of his Democratic opponent.

Objectives For Schools Are Outlined

BEDFORD, Pa. (AP)—Dr. Charles H. Boehm, state superintendent of public instruction, has outlined four basic objectives which he says will put Pennsylvania's school program in step with the times.

Speaking at the 11th annual Classroom Teachers' Conference of the Pennsylvania State Education Association Saturday, Dr. Boehm said:

"As Pennsylvania plunges into an intensive appraisal of the entire instructional program from elementary grades through college, some new over-all objectives are already apparent:

"1. We must meet better than at the present time, the basic elements of the American way of life.

"2. We must assist youth to become accustomed to rapid change.

"3. We will prepare our youth for the emerging space age in which they will spend their life.

"4. We must through literature, history and other areas of the program lead our pupils to have a greater appreciation of the culture of the peoples of Asia, Africa and South America."

More specifically the state's schools face "the urgency of a thorough and complete overhauling of the social studies and literature programs, pointed toward the development of an appreciation of the cultures of peoples who inhabit Asia, Africa and other lands," Boehm said.

He added that his department already is working on a comprehensive program for updating classroom instruction at all levels in the years ahead.

4th Mysterious Bomb

Blast Rocks N. Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—A mysterious bomb explosion—the fourth in the city in three weeks—jarred a ferry boat near the Statue of Liberty Sunday as it was crossing New York Bay from Manhattan to Staten Island.

Police held an estimated 20 passengers aboard the ferry boat Knickerbocker for questioning, hoping to catch the "mad bomber" believed to have set off all four blasts.

They later were all released without any arrests.

No one was injured, and the boat was never in real danger. Passengers were stunned by the explosion but remained calm. A hole two feet in diameter was blown out of the main deck and benches in the women's cabin, where the blast went off, were damaged.

The boat's captain, George LaRue, said he was nearing the St. George ferry terminal on Staten Island in murky twilight when the explosion startled him. He immediately radioed to shore for help. More than 75 detectives, police bomb experts, firemen and FBI agents converged on the terminal.

Follows Pattern

The timing of the blast followed the pattern of three of the four explosions this month, all late on a Sunday afternoon. One of the blasts came on a Wednesday—a holiday, Columbus Day, Oct. 12.

Sunday's blast was the first of the series to occur outside Manhattan.

The first explosion was Oct. 21 near the George M. Cohan statue in Times Square; the second Oct. 9 at the New York Public Library two blocks to the east, and the third Oct. 12 in the busy Times Square subway station. A total of 41 persons have been injured.

The similarity of the explosions set off a search for another "mad

USW Repeats Claim For 32-Hour Week

PITTSBURGH (AP)—President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers repeated Sunday his union's intention to seek a 32-hour work week.

"Our intent to seek the enabling legislation in Congress is based on our belief in the needs for the future. . .," McDonald said at the annual conference of USW District 13.

Allentown Hears Nixon Charge Foe Is Reckless

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon says Pennsylvania is one of the seven "vital" states in his bid for the presidency in the Nov. 8 election and that's why he's spending so much time in the state.

Shortly before taking off for Washington Saturday night after a tour of eastern Pennsylvania during which he was greeted by large and enthusiastic crowds, Nixon reminded he'd be back again Monday for a whistle-stop tour. It will begin in York in central Pennsylvania and end in Pittsburgh in the western half.

"We plan to carry Pennsylvania," Nixon said in an interview. "It's a real battleground."

He listed the other vital states as New York, Ohio, Illinois, California, Texas and Michigan. Pennsylvania has 22 electoral votes.

In a major speech in Muhlenberg College's Memorial Hall before a jam-packed, roaring 5,800 persons, the Republican presidential candidate declared:

"With all the spirit I have seen today we are going to carry this Keystone State and that means we are going to carry the nation."

Nixon was greeted at the airport by a crowd estimated by police Capt. Carson Gabel at 6,000. Gabel estimated 50,000 turned out to greet him along a 10-mile motorcade from the airport to Allentown.

"You can call that a conservative estimate," Gabel said. "I've never seen a crowd like this in my 15 years."

Allentown Fire Chief Charles B. O'Donnell estimated some 7,000 persons jammed the football field near Memorial Hall. He said many of them were turned away from the hall which filled up about two hours before the vice president spoke.

They gave Nixon a standing ovation when his motorcade entered the area and a police cordon was needed to keep a pressing crowd away from him as he walked into Memorial Hall.

Earlier Nixon had toured Delaware, Chester, Montgomery and Bucks counties, also primarily Republican territory. In all he was seen or heard by well over 175,000 people during the long day.

Some of those who have been close to Nixon since the start of the campaign commented to newsmen as he waited with his wife, Pat, in the wings of Memorial Hall before taking the speaker's platform.

He chatted with a newsmen and fire and police officials.

"It was nice of them to stand in the cold," he remarked, referring to the crowd which waited on the football field. "Allentown always has been very friendly to me and Pat, but not like this."

The vice president in his address also had some kind words for Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., one of his chief advisors and for Rep. Willard Curtin, R-Pa., an incumbent who is seeking re-election in the Eighth Congressional District.

But most of the vice president's speech focused on Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential candidate, and the Cuban issue. He said Kennedy has taken a "shockingly reckless" stand on Cuba that raises doubts as to whether he has the judgement needed to be president. He said Kennedy's proposal that the United States support a revolution in Cuba could lead to war with Soviet Russia.

The Ball's Over

Dear Brushed: Collar the gentleman and calmly ask him what (and who) is new. Don't turn on the water works or go into hysterics if you want the truth. It's the end of the line for you, it's better to know now than to throw more good years after bad. Brace yourself for a farewell to arms, His.

Dear Abby: I'm surprised nobody has formed a "sitters' union." I think it's terrible the way some sitters are taken advantage of, especially teen-age sitters. They should charge like this:

Group One: Well-behaved child. A dollar an hour.

Group Two: Problem child. Two dollars an hour.

Group Three: Impossible child. Three dollars an hour.

And sitters should charge by the child as well as the hour. Why should we take care of three wild children for the price of one?

Dear Abby: I am a boy who is 14. I have a brother who is 16. Ever since we were able to talk we have had to answer "Sir" to our dad. He thinks it is the polite way to talk but we feel like we are in the army. Do you think we ought to keep it up or not?

"IN THE ARMY"

Dear In: Yes, Sir!

Dear Abby: I have given my fraternity pin to my girl friend with plans for becoming engaged within the coming year. We have been dating for the past two years. We have now reached the stage where we are close to each other's parents. My question is whether it is proper to address each other's parents as "Mom" and "Dad" or should we continue to call them "Mr." and "Mrs."?

CONFUSED

Dear Confused: Play it safe and call them "Mr." and "Mrs." until they ARE indeed "Mom" and "Dad."

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Teen-agers Want To Know," send 25c and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of this paper.

Labor Chief Speaker At GOP Rally

"IF the labor movement in America is to benefit the laboring people, then labor members should vote for the candidates who will help labor and not vote just for the party."

So spoke Thomas Lazio, president of United Auto Workers Local 300, of Paterson, N.J., who gave the main address Friday night at a Republican Labor Rally in the CLU Club, East Stroudsburg.

By way of explanation, Lazio said the Landon-Griffin Labor Act was a bill passed by the Democratic Congress and therefore "I do not understand why labor isn't Republican."

Questioned by Listener

He was asked by an unidentified person attending the rally, "Why is labor on the side of the Democrats?" Lazio said, "Labor isn't on the Democratic side. This year it (labor) is split even."

"America is enjoying the highest standard of living, income and employment rate in the history of the country and that labor has always fared better under a Republican administration," Lazio added.

He endorsed Woodrow Horn as the Republican candidate for Congress and stated, "We need new, young people with fresh ideas in government who are willing to work effectively and unselfishly for their community."

Horn also spoke at the rally. He pledged aggressive efforts for the area and specifically stressed the completion of the Delaware Valley Dam (Incoed). Horn again called Walter's absentee record appalling and a dereliction of duty.

Appointment Announced By Railroad

JAMES W. Conway has been appointed superintendent of the Scranton division of the newly-merged Erie-Lackawanna Railroad, A. E. Kriesen, assistant vice president and general manager, announced. He was formerly superintendent of the Erie Railroad at Buffalo.

Conway, a native of Marion, O., started his career as clerk in the office of Erie master mechanic there in 1928. He held secretarial positions in Meadville and Cleveland until 1942 when he was given leave of absence for military service.

On his return, he was appointed inspector of operation at Cleveland in 1946, and was promoted to trainmaster at Jersey City later that year. He was named passenger trainmaster in Jersey City in 1948 and went to Buffalo in that capacity in 1956. Conway returned to the New York division at Jersey City late in 1956 as assistant superintendent. He has been superintendent at Buffalo since the first of this year.

In the realignment of territories under the merger, the Scranton division now consists of the former Erie's Wyoming division and branches except from Lackawanna and Honesdale, Pa., and that portion of the former Lackawanna Railroad Scranton-Buffalo division and branches from Port Morris, N.J., to Oswego and Utica, N.Y., excluding Binghamton and East Binghamton yard.

Teachers Ask End Of 'Side Shows'

LEWISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — The Pennsylvania Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO) says it's time to eliminate "distracting side shows" and get down to the business of teaching on school days.

In a resolution adopted at the federation's convention here over the weekend, the teachers called for "elimination of distracting side shows during the school day."

It recommended an end to such activities as "assemblies that are entertainment rather than instruction, pep rallies and sales campaigns, in order that the school day may be used for teachers to teach and pupils to learn."

It also adopted resolutions calling for:

1. Analysis of every new program to see whether it has actual merit for improving instruction or is only a copy of a new fad.

2. Reduction of (teacher) clerical work and non-teaching duties.

3. Recognition of the fact that, in addition to teaching periods, the teacher must have time to prepare plans and material, correct papers, keep up to a fast changing world through courses or reading and also to recuperate from a classroom strain.

4. Approval of workshops that actually add to the teacher's skill and knowledge, but disapproval of those that are merely keeping up with the style and have no real value.

5. Proportionate increase in pay for a longer working year, an increase which every other occupational group would expect."

109th Battle Group At Highest Strength In National Guard

NORTHEASTERN Pennsylvania's First Battle Group, 109th Infantry, Pennsylvania Army National Guard, with 1184 officers and enlisted men, is the highest strength organization in the Pennsylvania Army National Guard.

Maj. Gen. Henry K. Fluck, Harrisburg, commanding general, 28th Infantry Division, released strength figures yesterday revealing that the area guard unit has outstripped its sister organizations in the recruiting field. The announcement reported the Keystone Division membership as 755 officers, 82 warrant officers, and 10,125 enlisted men.

Two of the 109th units, Headquarters Company, Scranton and Company E, Carbondale, are at full wartime strength. Company D, with headquarters in Honesdale has only six vacancies.

Other units and available openings are: Combat Support Company, West Pittston, 49; Company A, East Stroudsburg, 31; Company B, Scranton, 24; and Company C, Scranton, 52.

Current company membership commanders include: Company A, East Stroudsburg, three officers and 147 enlisted men, Capt. Gerald E. Shanley Jr.

Col. Walter W. Unley, Dalton, 109th commander noted that achieving the strength leadership has earned for the Battle Group the unique distinction of being the "best administered, finest trained, and now the highest strength organization in the Pennsylvania Army National Guard—if not in the nation."

The Northeast Pennsylvania guardmen previously earned top awards for outstanding achievements in paperwork, supply and training.

Maj. John E. McDonald, group adjutant, said that the Battle Group had recruited over 500 new members since reorganization to the Pentomic Concept in June 1959. The majority of the new members, 443, joined to participate in the six months active duty for training program. Other increases are accounted for by transfers from other organizations and enlistment of veterans, he added.

The "Take Six" program offers young men an opportunity to meet their military obligation by joining the National Guard and spending six months in the Active Army. On completion of the six-month basic training program the enlistee returns to his hometown guard unit and participates in 48 drills, plus two weeks of field training, annually.

Most Take Six enlistees are sent to training sites at either Fort Dix, N. J.; Fort Jackson, S. C.; or Fort Knox, Ky.

The alternative to enlistment in the guard's Take Six program is participation in two years active duty under selective service draft requirements.

Col. Unley urged young men considering enlistment in the 109th to act quickly before the 162 available openings are filled.

How Do You Vote?

I Believe Gasoline Taxes Are Too High!

YES NO

HOW DID YOU VOTE?

No matter how you voted, these facts on gasoline taxes are important to you:

• In Pennsylvania, car owners pay 90¢ tax on every 10 gallons of gasoline they buy!

• Gasoline taxes across the nation amount to a 50% sales tax—and that's five times as high as the tax rate on luxuries like diamonds and mink coats!

• Since World War II, there have been three increases in the Federal gasoline tax alone. This brought the Federal tax to 4 cents a gallon, in addition to the State tax of 5 cents a gallon!

• In the last ten years gasoline taxes have skyrocketed 51%—yet the price of gasoline itself has risen only 5.5% during the same period!

• Each year the average motor vehicle owner in this state pays $67 for gasoline taxes alone. That's just a few dollars less than the average week's pay for most people!

HIGHWAYS AND GASOLINE TAXES

Your gasoline retailer, naturally, favors construction of the roads that the motoring public needs. He believes in fair and reasonable taxation for this purpose but feels that taxes on gasoline have now reached unreasonably high levels. He also believes that all special taxes on the motorist should be used only for highway purposes. Yet last year, out of every automobile tax dollar collected by the Federal Government from highway users, more than 40 cents went for non-highway purposes. If these automotive tax revenues were dedicated for highway purposes, there would be no need for the latest increase in the federal gasoline tax.

National Increase 1950-1959

Interest In Politics

One campaigner was heard to observe: "Independent voters are more concerned with the public welfare than are party regulars."

This, surely, is a significant remark—perhaps even a slip—on the part of a politician. But it falls down on two counts: it underestimates the partisan voter and overrates the independent.

Certainly there are regulars in both the Republican and Democratic camps who vote almost blindly, automatically, for their ticket. Yet many millions of regulars vote a steady party pattern not because they give the matter no thought, but because they feel a genuine, continuing commitment to the policies, programs and philosophy of one party.

They are deeply concerned with the public welfare, and this concern is not lessened by the fact that they see it best served by uninterrupted allegiance to the same party.

Studies show the number and percentage of "uncommitted" voters is rising steadily. But notwithstanding the claim that these voters are more discriminating in their election choices, many surveys have indicated that what most distinguishes this large political group is its indifference to politics.

Certainly there are real independents who cannot accept formal affiliation with any party, but all signs suggest their number is not great. Political scientists have found most independents either can't or don't want to bother to make a steady choice between parties.

But there is nothing in the observable record to suggest the average independent is in any way superior to the average partisan voter in his concern for the nation's welfare.

Weeding Out The Menaces

The U.S. Bureau of Public Roads is about to compile a list of persons of dubious distinction.

They are the drivers who have had their licenses lifted because of drunken driving or involvement in a fatal accident. The new national registry, made possible by congressional legislation this year, will provide an exchange of information among states as a means to prevent the relicensing of drivers who have been judged to be highway menaces.

Pennsylvania Commissioner of Traffic Safety O. D. Shipley this week said our state is "ready to cooperate" in any way in the exchange of information.

As Mr. Shipley noted, it may be some time before the registry becomes really effective. There are an average of a quarter of a million drivers who lose their licenses each year for either of two serious violations covered in the program. Present plans do not call for retroactive cases to be included, and so several years will elapse before a comprehensive listing is available.

Once the program is a going concern, however, there is no reason why it could not be expanded to include revocations for serious violations not covered now. And eventually the federal program could be integrated with the movement among several states, including Pennsylvania, to exchange information on the violations themselves.

A beginning has been made both on a federal and an interstate level. The task now will be to build these fledgling programs to a point where safety coordination among all the states is a reality.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Pentagon Reorganization

The expert will read Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris' book, "Countdown for Decision," with critical attention concerning rockets, missiles and such.

I am not capable of discussing such matters at all from a technical standpoint.

Nevertheless, I found this book interesting and even exciting because it brought sharply to the reader's attention the fact that just as we are developing new weapons to meet new conditions, so we need to develop new organizations to meet changing situations.

The armed forces exist to make war. Euphemistically and politically we refer to war these days as defense; but whether it is defense or offense, it is war and war is waste. From an economic standpoint therefore military institutions expect to waste the nation's wealth and manpower as thriftily as possible.

On the other hand, too much thrill can defeat the very purpose of the military organization. You may recall that our recruits at the beginning of World War II had no rifles. We had perhaps 18 months warning then; we may not have 18 minutes warning the next time.

General Medaris says: "I have tried to emphasize many times in this book how stupid and highly wasteful it is to spend several millions of dollars to get up a satellite to do a specific job, and then find that because of the failure of one element aboard the satellite the mission cannot be accomplished. "This so-called 'redundancy' is almost the only way to assure with relative certainty that the millions of dollars involved in getting the satellite into position will result in a useful instrument for a sufficient time to warrant the cost."

But is this duplication business-like? General Medaris replies: "... under the guise of so-called 'business methods' of operation, totally unrealistic systems of control and of evaluation of results are foisted upon the Services, crippling the capacity of the Armed Forces to fight and win any kind of armed conflict that might threaten us.

"Corporation accounting methods are forced into a system that cannot stand up a profit-and-loss statement or price its product, except when the chips are down and all must go to the profit side if we can win, or all becomes a loss if we lose.

"Accountants and bookkeepers have been multiplied fourfold, replacing leaders, strategists, and tacticians, and not one dime of the taxpayers' money has been saved in the process. For every dollar of mistake identified, always too late to correct, ten dollars have been spent in the finding."

The problem raised here is technical, as it must be. Our armed forces cannot be managed as ribbons are sold in a department store. The problems are not the same.

The department store sells ribbons to make a profit. If the ribbons do not sell, there is a sale, a mark down and the loss is absorbed and forgotten. The armed forces must be ready at all times to kill the enemy fast and surely and to avoid being killed by the enemy in turn.

There can be no failure, because any failure is total failure. There can be no writing off losses, because the losses are total losses, never to be recovered. The loss may even amount to the destruction of a nation and the enslavement of its people.

The Defense Department must be related to the single purpose of winning a war and it must always assume that a war is just around the corner. The State Department exists to keep and make the peace; the Pentagon exists to win a war and for nothing else.

The question then is not what is traditionally right but what needs to be done to defeat Soviet Russia, Red China and their satellites quickly, surely, effectively.

General Medaris' book is a critique of our methods of handling war. He says: "It should be logical to establish a Joint Command to which should be entrusted the undivided responsibility for directing the major missile and space activities. This would permit maximum utilization of the expert talent and the unique facilities administered by the three Services."

"The scientific community could be represented at the command level. Thus we could align individual and national objectives, and the over-all program would benefit from a joint and co-ordinated approach."

And if such co-ordination is logical in space work, why not throughout the defense establishment? We have never really tried unification and the total utilization of our national intellectual equipment.

The Pennsylvania Story

Recessive Dip

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — It is interesting that one of the big basic issues of Pennsylvania's current presidential campaign — insofar as Democrats are concerned — centers around the Keystone State's unemployment problem.

The irony of all this lies in the fact that it was just six years ago that then hopeful and quaking Democrats headed by (successful) gubernatorial hopeful George Michael Leader plugged the unemployment issue to the hilt.

Today, six years later the very same issue has been made a key issue by Pennsylvania Democrats.

Interestingly, Mr. Leader, at the time of his candidacy in 1954 when asked by this column to serve as guest writer for a day on the subject of what he thought were the basic issues of that campaign, spelled it out pointedly as the then controversial "sales tax — and unemployment."

In 1954 it will be recalled, the nation — and Pennsylvania — was fighting what became known as the 1954 "recessive dip."

Unemployment rolls of the Keystone State — as elsewhere — were mounting.

Pennsylvania unemployment became a hit issue with Democratic candidates.

The recession as it affected Pennsylvania at the time was blamed on then in office Republican administration of Governor Fine.

Democratic candidate Leader pledged repeatedly that if elected Governor, tackling the unemployment problem would be a key point of his administration — that his administration would "handle" the problem.

It is certainly a truism that tackling the unemployment problem actually became one of the key points of the city or county where the marriage license was obtained, or the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State in which you were married, fees are generally charged for such records.

Q—For 25 years I worked steadily as a self-employed farmer. I paid into social security when farmers were first covered in 1935, and also in 1936, and for part of 1937. Three years ago, I had a heart attack which left me almost bedfast. I have not been able to work at all since 1937 and my farm has lain idle since then with no income at all. The doctor has forbidden me to do anything requiring exertion. I am 55 years old. Will I be able to receive social security disability insurance benefits now?

A—No. One of the requirements for disability benefits is that you must have worked at least five out of the last ten years for social security. Since you became disabled before you became disabled in employment or self-employment that was covered by social security. Since you became disabled in 1937 then you would have at most only three of the last ten years required work.

Q—Where will I get the public record of my marriage? A. It may be obtained from the clerk of the court in the Democratic administration of Governor Leader.

However it is also a truism that the nation's economy as a whole picked up considerably in 1955 and 1956 carrying Pennsylvania along with it. Riding the crest then was the Leader Administration.

The 1957 and 1958 declines however clouded the picture. Pennsylvania's unemployment rolls began to soar along with unemployment throughout the nation.

The simple fact is that unemployment in Pennsylvania during the Leader Administration reached its highest point since the end of World War II, as statistics of the administration's own Department of Labor and Industry at the time pointed out.

This of course was not peculiar to the Keystone State. It was a trend generally followed—once again—throughout the nation.

Yet with all this—the very same issue that Democrats used to advantage on a Republican administration six years ago—has become a prime campaign issue with Democrats in the presidential race this year!

But there is a decided functional difference. This time however, as the administration in office at the time of the recessive movements, Democrats smartly enough are pinning the blame on the national (Republican) administration.

Secondly, the Democratic version of the area redevelopment assistance bill passed by this year's Democratic-controlled Congress and vetoed by Republican President Eisenhower — much to the disgruntlement of Mr. Lawrence who hustled to Washington on different occasions in support of the legislation—has become a top campaign issue for Democrats of the Keystone State.

For Pennsylvania Democrats, unemployment this year again has become a prime issue — but the cut of the cloth is slightly different!

Social Security Guide

Q. What change was made in the amount a social security beneficiary may earn and keep all his social security checks for a year?

A. A person earning over $1200 a year will still have some deductions made from his benefits. However, instead of making the deductions by holding up entire checks for one to twelve months of the year, $1 will be held out for each $2 of earnings between $1200 and $1500 in the year, and $1 for each $1 of earnings over $1500. For example, if a husband and wife are getting $150 per month, they will still get at least $650 in benefits even if the husband earns $2500 in the year. For full details as to how much you may earn and still get some benefits, write your social security district office. All beneficiaries will still get a full month's benefits for any month in which earnings are less than $100, no matter how high the annual total.

Q. Where will I get the public record of my marriage? A. It may be obtained from the clerk of the court in the city or county where the marriage license was obtained, or the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State in which you were married, fees are generally charged for such records.

The Allen-Scott Report

Russia Cracking Down

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington—Russia is mysteriously cracking down on a number of its oldest and most important military publications.

Some have been suspended outright in this unannounced move; prominent among them are Soviet Fleet, Soviet Aviation, Tankman, Military Engineering Journal, Military Signalman, and Artilleryman.

One is to "prevent leaks of important military information" through these publications. It's no secret that Western military and intelligence authorities carefully scan these journals, particularly the Military Herald, which is extremely difficult to obtain.

The other reputed cause is to curb the growing power of the military. Since the death of Stalin and the fierce battling among the Khrushchev hierarchy for domination, the military has attained more authority than at any time in the Soviet system.

Khrushchev owes his life and supremacy to the backing of a group of Field Marshals—Georgi Zhukov, who later was abruptly axed as he returned from a fan-fare visit to Yugoslavia; Rodion Malinovsky, who succeeded Zhukov as Defense Minister and was Khrushchev's constant companion when he torpedoed the summit conference last May; and Ivan Konev and Vasili Sokolovsky, who commanded battle armies in World War II and are the real powers behind Malinovsky.

Strikingly indicative of the extensive authority now wielded by the Soviet military are the following:

More than 75 officers are now members of the Supreme Soviet, and hundreds of others hold offices in local governments.

Generals and admirals have key places in atomic energy, missile and space activities, heavy industry, transportation and communications.

The armed services are becoming increasingly self-contained, with their own production and supply systems. They determine what they want, when they want it, and they have been getting it.

Where They're Coming From — Two Russian intercontinental ballistic missile centers that are now operational have been definitely pinpointed, as follows:

Kapustin Yar, in the marshy lower reaches of the Volga River about 60 miles from Stalingrad, site of one of the famed battles in World War II. It was from this missile center that the first Sputnik was launched in October 1957, and from which the Russians fired their long-range Pacific "shots" last year.

Drzhulys, approximately 30 miles northeast of Aralsk, an old trading center on the northern rim of the Aral Sea, in south-western Russia and north of Iran. A number of space firings have been made from this base, including an unsuccessful attempt to put a man into space. Intelligence has reports that was attempted just before Khrushchev arrived at the UN.

Both these operational ICBM bases were photographed by U-2 reconnaissance planes.

One of pilot Francis Powers' missions on his ill-fated flight was to get more pictures of Kapustin Yar because it had been heavily camouflaged. His route also took him over Drzhulys and Magnitogorsk, another missile center, which he photographed before crashing—due primarily to a flame-out of his jet engines.

Central Intelligence authorities have advised the Pentagon to expect new Russian missile tests in the Pacific "in a few months." The last took place early this year.

One of those shots had an estimated range of more than 8,500 miles.

Not Talking — One thing General Nathan Twining, recently retired head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is not going to do is write memoirs. The airman is telling friends, "Too much of that sort of stuff has been written already. The official records are available for anyone who wants to read them, and I'm resting on those."

More than 24,000 military officers and enlisted men are eligible to retire in 1961. And that large number will gradually increase to an estimated 44,000 in 1970. Next year, the Navy will retire some 10,500 officers and men; the Army around 6,000; and the Air Force 6,500. By 1970, the Air Force will top the list with 18,000, the Army next with 12,000, the Navy 9,700 and the Marines 2,600.

As of Oct. 1, there were 345 generals and admirals on duty in the Washington area: 124 Army; 99 Navy; 97 Air Force; 23 Marine Corps. One statistically-minded Pentagon wit figured out there are now 10 general officers per acre in that giant structure.

Inside You And Yours

Bell's Palsy

Your mouth droops when you smile. That bloodshot eye insists on staying open like an all-night bar.

Your worried brow looks like two Venetian blinds—one up and one down. You've run smack into the face of Bell's palsy.

Like a split personality, one side frowns, while the other droops in silent paralysis.

Yet Bell's palsy clangs an alarm as loud as any warning gong. Quick treatment can guarantee almost every victim an ear-to-ear smile, bettering the old odds of four to one.

Special Nerve — Your facial expression tunnels out through the skull in a special nerve. Except for a few fibers which hook up with taste buds, the nerve carries signals to muscles which shape the face. But smiles fade and even frowns become one-sided when Bell's palsy strikes.

The trouble all stems from that bony corset which grips the nerve like a custom-made girdle, as it tunnels through the skull. Molded to every ripple, this corset leaves no room for extra bulges, as signals bounce from nerve to muscle to nerve.

Nerve Failure — Nerves fail face muscles when other nerves inside the chest shift into high gear. Flickering signals race up nerve channels in the neck to tighten blood vessels inside that rigid bony girdle.

At first, these spastic vessels constrict, then they dilate. Doctors used to turn medical waiters and prescribe massage and cellophane tape splints to keep face muscles in shape until new nerves arrived. The new nerve fibers occasionally tangled into a knot, leaving face muscles paralyzed or twitching in spasm.

Now, doctors have attacked the problem like a housewife who's grown too large for her girdle: either the contents reduce or the corset is altered. If the nerve pressure is relieved early, it recovers completely in a week or so—that's why the emergency alarm!

Shrink Swelling — To shrink the corset's contents, doctors merely paralyze those chest nerves which started all the trouble and give cortisone-like drugs to shrink the swelling. If they suspect bleeding, they can also prescribe clot-preventing and dissolving medicines.

Even when medicines fail, they can drill tiny holes and cracks to expand the bony corset and relieve the nervous pressure. Don't delay! Bell's palsy demands that you ring your doctor's doorbell at once.

On Broadway —by Walter Winchell

The Headliners — Laughter, happy tinkles and graceful gyrations are the grace of hard, hard work. And most of the effort is expended in tryouts to w n s.

Whipping a show into shape demands enormous physical and emotional stamina. Moss Hart, one of the theatre's giants, was felled by a heart attack during the tryout of "Came- lot."

In his autobiography, "Act One," Mr. Hart explains the ordeal he endured before his initial show came to Broadway: "The exhaustion I felt was due in large part no doubt to that violent attack of hiccup, but neither hiccup nor the strain of sweating out the last act could entirely account for the almost overpowering weariness that had taken possession of my mind as well as my body. I seemed to have used up the last reserve of response or emotion. I wanted of all things to go home, and I wanted to go home with the passionate unreasonableness of a six-year-old."

It was unofficially estimated that 50,000 would be cast in the 1940 election in Monroe County.

The United States was standing by to take control of all French territory in the Caribbean area, depending on the action of the French government with Hitler.

James Thurber, who is currently making like an actor in "A Thurber Carnival," writes: "I consider myself a professional writer, a semi-professional cartoonist, and an amateur actor. As a grandfather of three, I am also a reasonably competent baby-sitter. If the little darlings don't gang up on me," Mr. Thurber has neglected to list another of his talents. At one time he was also a top-flight reporter. One day his editor demanded that he write short leads. The following was Thurber's contribution: "Dead. That's what the man was the police found in the alleyway yesterday."

She was gripped by melancholy. The role she created dominated her. She later confessed: "Sometimes I don't know the difference between the real and the imaginary."

The most successful performers—the greatest stars—have suffered the pangs of depression before their shows reached the Main Arena . . . Several seasons ago Helen Hayes starred in "Time Remembered." Miss Hayes recently recalled: "On the road, in Washington, I was panicky, trying to get out of the play, flinging myself around like one demented—on stage and off."

The play eventually came to Broadway and Miss Hayes collected raves. In other words, champions are not people who are never frightened—they have the ability to overcome their fears.

James Thurber, who is currently making like an actor in "A Thurber Carnival," writes: "I consider myself a professional writer, a semi-professional cartoonist, and an amateur actor. ## Audivox Announces A New Aid

MARGUERITE J. Greinert, authorized dealer for Audivox Hearing Aids, announces the new Phantom 11, the tiniest Audivox ever ... a new depth of sound you must experience to believe.

The Phantom 11 is especially designed for those who hear but do not understand words. Mrs.
Greinert says the Phantom is an ear level, self-contained hearing aid encased in an almost invisible flesh-tone shell.
You slip it behind your ear and it stays in place comfortably, yet firmly held by the contour of your head.

Mrs. Greinert goes on to say that there are no wires leading from body to head to advertise your loss. A tiny, almost invisible transparent tube leads into your ear. That's all!

Audivox Hearing Aids are manufactured in the United States, sold only through authorized Audivox distributors in principal cities.

Each Audivox precision instrument is registered at our headquarters in the name of its owner who is entitled to worldwide service under the terms of the Audivox Warranty.

For more information about the Audivox Hearing Aid, write or call Marguerite J. Greinert,

Apparel Shop every Wednesday

Goodrich Sales Up, Earnings Dip

THE B. F. GOODRICH Co. announced that its earnings in the nine months ending Sept.
30 were 16.3 percent below the 1959 level despite a 1.6 percent increase in sales.

J. W. Keener, president, said that net income for the 1960 period was $24,121,747 or $2.68 a common share. This compares to $28,820,709 or $3.20 a share for the same period last year.

Keener said that the earnings had been affected by the increasing natural rubber and employment costs and by a low competitive pricing of replacement tires and some other products.

dent of the company.

The net income in the quarter rose to $26,961,000 or $1.34 a share. This is an increase over the report of the same period last year which was $24,409,000 or $1.20 a share.

In the first nine months of this year net earnings rose 13.4 percent to $75,984,000 or $3.76

Top Builders Cut Costs

MANY of the nation's leading builders prefer to roof their homes with asphalt shingles because they are low in applied cost. Skilled roofers can apply a durable, attractive roof of asphalt shingles quickly, resulting in lower labor costs. The builder can pass this on to the buyer as a cash savings, or use it to add such things as an electric appliance or two or some other "extra."

Fall Is Tune-Up Time

IF YOU have been troubled with the annoyance of poor starting and poor performance in your car, it's time to take it to O. F. "Oit" Thomas of 9th and Sarah Sts. in Stroudsburg.
With the brisk feel of Fall and Winter in the air, you owe it to yourself to have your car checked. Smooth operation of your engine depends on a number of things, but are basically Electrical, Fuel and Cooling Systems. These prime sources of trouble can be corrected by proper tune-up procedure. O. F.
Thomas is equipped and staffed to handle your automotive needs.

Only branded replacement parts are used (if required).
Among these name brands most important at this time of year are Exide Batteries and Du-Pont TELAR. DuPont TELAR is the new year 'round coolant for radiators and cooling systems.
Telar rustproofs your entire system, prevents "freeze-up" in winter and maintains perfect cooling in summer weather. An extra added feature of Telar is Color Check. Should anything go wrong with the cooling system or your engine, like a faulty water pump or a leaky gasket, the Telar solution changes from red to yellow. As long as the solution is red you know its safe to leave in and that your cooling system is in good condition. If it should turn yellow, the system should be drained and the system repaired before more costly damage develops.

When your car needs repair or tuning up, see O. F. "Oit" Thomas for the best-running car you've ever had!

HARRY S. TRUMAN

Born in Lamar, Missouri, May 8, 1884. Graduated from the local high school. From 1906, until his enlistment in the army, 1917, he worked on his mother's farm. He served overseas and advanced to the rank of captain. His first business venture, a haberdashery, failed. In debt $20,000, he refused to file bankruptcy and over a period of ten years paid his creditors in full.

A political appointment made him overseer of county highways. Elected county judge, Jackson Co., Mo. in 1922; while serving, studied law at night. Elected presiding judge, 1926; U. S. Senator, 1934, and re-elected 1940. As Chairman of the "Truman Committee," which saved the government hundreds of millions of dollars, he gained a national reputation and nomination as Vice-President in 1944.

At the death of President Roosevelt, he was sworn in as the thirty-third President of the United States, April 12, 1945. He was re-elected, 1948, in the nation's most startling political upset.

During his tenure, the atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima, the world's greatest war was brought to a close, the "Truman Doctrine" was inaugurated and U. S. troops were sent to fight in Korea under the United Nations.

At the close of his term, he retired to Independence, Missouri.

ALBEN WILLIAM BARKLEY

Born in Graves County, near Lowes, Ky. He received his education in Kentucky schools and colleges and was admitted to the bar in 1901. He practiced law in Paducah, Ky. Served as prosecuting attorney and judge in McCracken Co., as a member of the House of Representatives 14 years, U. S. Senator, 1927-49, and Vice-President of the United States, 1948-52.

Age was his only handicap for serious consideration as a likely presidential candidate for the election of 1952. He was re-elected U. S. Senator, 1954. Died 1956.

MRS. HARRY S. TRUMAN

Bess Wallace, born in Independence, Mo., 1885. She married Mr. Truman in 1919. They had known each other since childhood.

A well-educated and capable woman, she served as her husband's secretary while he was a U. S. Senator. With efficiency and graciousness, she performed her duties as First Lady and gave her family a measure of the simple home life they all loved.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman now live in their home town, Independence, Mo. They frequently visit with their daughter and her family in New York.

Reorganizing Mesabi Iron

By William A. Doyle

Q. I have read that Mesabi Iron Co. wants to reorganize as a royalty trust. What is this all about? How would the stockholders benefit?

A. This is a slightly unusual but very interesting situation — especially because it could turn out to be a test case, upon which other companies might pattern reorganization plans.

Mesabi Iron owns and holds leases on large tracts of iron ore land at Babbitt, Minn. But Mesabi Iron does not do any mining itself. It leaves the properties to Reserve Mining Co. That company is owned jointly by Armco Steel and Republic Steel.

Mesabi Iron collects royalties from Reserve Mining. Those royalties are based on the amount of ore mined, processed and shipped.

The whole theory behind the plan to reorganize as a royalty trust seems to be that Mesabi Iron is not an operating company. But, while it is set up as a corporation, it must pay corporation income taxes on its profits to the Federal government.

If it can change over to a royalty trust, that 52 percent corporate income tax bite would be eliminated.

The stockholders would receive "certificates of beneficial interest" in the royalty trust that would be set up in exchange for their stock certificates.

The trust would pass on the royalty payments to the holders of the certificates of beneficial interest. Those holders would then pay taxes on the payments they would receive. But there would be no double taxation, because the corporate income tax would be eliminated.

The big hurdle will be to get the plan approved by the U. S. Treasury Department. So far, the Treasury hasn't given any indication of how it will rule on this or any similar plan.

Q. I own some Texas Pacific Land Trust "sub-share certificates." What are sub-shares?

A. They are fractions of full shares. In this case, it takes 100 sub-shares to equal one Texas Pacific Land Trust "certificate of proprietary interest."

Texas Pacific Land Trust is set up somewhat along the lines being attempted by the outfit described in the previous item in this column.

Texas Pacific Land Trust passes on to its holders of certificates of proprietary interest and holders of its sub-shares the income it receives from royalties and rentals on grazing, oil and mineral lands and also from the sale of land.

Under this setup, however, Texas Pacific Land Trust keeps its operating expenses relatively low but does have to pay Federal income taxes.

By this time, it should be clear to one and all that trust arrangements such as these do get quite complicated.

The big attraction in Texas Pacific Land Trust is that each sub-share represents, among other things, ownership in roughly one and a third acres of Texas Land.

And each certificate of proprietary interest represents ownership in about 133 acres.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Just Between Us —

Trapped by an invocation, that was me on Saturday night, caught in one of those nightmarish experiences that happen to other people only in dreams: like being caught at a tea in your bare feet.

"I'm sure I'll wake up," I kept assuring myself hopefully, with my head bowed and my eyes closed tight as the invocation went on and on and on, and I couldn't take in a single word. But when it was finally over and I cautiously opened my eyes — they were still there — all 5,500 people waiting for the Nixons to arrive at the field house at Muhlenberg.

There I still was — up on the platform where I had no right to be with no possible exit except the way I had come: which was by crawling under the press table in the front row. It had seemed sensible enough at the time I'd done it. There was a milling around of technicians plugging in lights and microphones, and tape recorders being set up, and the Western Union man trotting back and forth with wire messages.

Nobody noticed when I ducked under the table and went up on the platform to ask Parke Unangst and Tom Waring if they'd ever caught up to my press credentials. I was still buoyed up by the miracle of having got in at all without them with so many thousands of people battering at the doors, but a little fearful of not being able to stay at the press table with nothing to show. Besides, I wanted to find out if there was a chance for a personal interview with Mrs. Nixon after the rally.

I found out that my credentials were still enroute somewhere or other and that the only person who could tell me about the Nixon's schedule was George Bloom, State Chairman. So I slipped over to ask Mr. Bloom — and boom! Everybody stood up; and the invocation began.

Well, I didn't wake up, the floor didn't open up and swallow me, and there was only one thing to do. Mustering what dignity I could, I walked to the front of the platform, down the steps, and then sank out of sight. I'd have been as pleased to stay under that table and it took courage to pop up on the other side, but I made it. Next time, though, I'd like to have my nightmares in the privacy of my own home.

Nixon Night Audience Ponders Secret Of Pat Nixon's Campaign Endurance

By

Bobby Westbrook

Whatever the secret of Mrs. Richard Nixon's ability to look alert, interested and friendly after 15 hours of the most exhausting type of campaigning, it wasn't counting peas.

Wives of other campaigners of other years have later confessed to various stratagems to keep them from falling asleep from sheer exhaustion at political rallies. One, for instance, said that at political dinners she always concentrated on counting the number of peas which inevitably accompany the equally inevitable chicken a la king.

But Pat Nixon didn't even have peas before her appearance on the platform at the Muhlenberg College field house at Nixon Night in Allentown on Saturday. A cup of coffee had been her supper after a 13-stop tour that started in New York on Saturday morning, covered the suburban and rural section around Philadelphia, and ended with a tumultuous reception at the Allentown Airport and record-breaking crowds along the city's streets.

When the Nixons entered the field house, a roar went up that was so loud it set up a physical push of air as tangible as a bomb blast and seemed strong enough to sway the slight figure of the wife of the Vice President of the United States as she stood behind him to receive the acclaim and the spray of red roses that matched her red wool dress.

It was the same dress in which she had started early in the morning. It was not as bright as cherry nor as dark as maroon but a warm red, a two-piece dress with a pleated skirt. A pill-box hat of velvet leaves rested straight on her auburn hair, with one leaf picking up the red of the dress, others echoing the autumn colors of yellow, gold and green.

In spite of the hectic hours that dress had gone through, every pleat hung in place. A single strand of pearls echoed her small pearl earrings. She wore no gloves but her trim black pumps were clean and untrampled.

In fact, her audience was a lot more disheveled. Suede shoes had been trampled and bows dangled from those who had been caught in the crush of people who wanted to touch, to get autographs, shake hands or just to get close to the Republican Presidential candidate and his wife.

Those who had been sitting in the field house, singing, talking, laughing, waving to friends, but grimly hanging on to their seats for as long as five hours beforehand, were a little wrinkled around the middle, too, and inclined to shiny noses.

Mrs. Nixon's face was as fresh and clear as the faces of the pretty college girls from Muhlenberg and Cedar Crest and surrounding colleges, who formed a human garland around the platform and gave the patient audience a change of scenery from staring at the local political leaders on the platform itself.

"It's not human to be that immaculate and serene after what she's been through," protested one wind-blown arrival.

But then Mrs. Nixon's dark eyes glowed and her tentative smile became really delighted as she seemed to take in individual faces in the mass and brought another appreciative roar. Those in the audience who had come as much to see as to hear could watch the play of expression as her husband spoke.

She tensed when he termed Castro a "cheap, egotistical enslaver," and searched the faces of the audience for their reactions at other vital points in his speech.

She was really seeing individual faces, too. At least she caught the wigwagged pantomime when Madalyn Maloney was trying to find out if she had received the note she left for her.

Mrs. Nixon, herself, has said that her strength during these hectic weeks of campaigning has been drawn from the people themselves; from their enthusiasm and dedication to the same cause.

Maybe that is the secret of her ability to look interested and friendly: maybe, she really is.

Communion Breakfast Draws 190

About 190 persons attended the communion breakfast of St. Matthew's Altar and Rosary Society held at the Penn-Stroud Hotel on Sunday morning.

The perfection of divine and fraternal love through the imitation of Christ is possible in all three ways of life for women: married, single and vocations, Miss Mary Zabresky of Swoyersville told the group.

Miss Zabresky is national vice chairman and diocesan chairman of the committee on spiritual development and her topic was "The Sense of Vocation — His Constant Call."

The meaning of human life, she said, can be summed up in a phrase: the search of God. He constantly calls his creatures to him so that he can increasingly heap upon them the benefits of the fullness of his life and love, she said.

Mrs. Kent Miller sang "Ave Maria," "Denny Boy" and "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise" with Mrs. Joseph Shukaitis as accompanist.

Mrs. Arthur Blewitt, president, introduced the past presidents and the executive board.

Mrs. Eugene Powers, breakfast chairman, introduced her committees: program, Miss Marie Brown; music, Mrs. A. M. Hickey and Mrs. William Hannas; tickets, Mrs. Edward Driebe and Mrs. Jack Boushell; publicity, Mrs. Z. J. Viechnicki.

In my kitchen is a small begonia plant that was given me some months ago. At the time it was quite tiny, but covered with pink blooms. It is much larger now, and while it is not entirely covered with blooms, it has several, and its leaves are very glossy and healthy looking.

To be quite honest, I'm sentimental about this little plant. It seems to me that it has contributed far more to the world around it in a brief few months than some things contribute in several decades. In return for a sip of water each day, it blooms its heart out, and seems to be perfectly content to be an appreciated part of the family. I even talk to it sometimes... and this isn't as ridiculous as it may seem. Several gardeners, noted for their green thumb, have told me they talk to their plants, just as one might talk to a pet cat or bird. "My feeling," one venerable gentleman, who teaches horticulture in a university, once told me, "is that plants respond to love in the same way any creature or fellow human might. At least, I like to think so."

I must admit, however, that while my fingers may all be thumbs, none of them are green... and this begonia is the only plant I've ever had that responded to my affectionate crooning. Maybe that's why my brass planter, I selected greens from our gift department—bits of fern, philodendron, and such that are made of plastic, rubber, or some such thing, but look amazingly real.

Can they honestly fool you? Well, I'll tell you this—a woman friend has two in wall planters, and recently her husband remarked that they were growing. When she explained that they couldn't, he was incredulous. "I was sure they were getting longer," he vowed. And he is a sober man! Some of the arrangements in Marion Leedom's department are priced at 1.98, while individual sprays cost as little as 2 for 35c and can be spread in various ways to give a profuse effect.

I was recently a dinner guest in a home that uses much green and red in its color scheme, creating a wonderfully warm effect. Particularly interesting to me were two silk panels of Japanese design hanging from round black and brass rods against a delicate green wall. A Japanese girl was handpainted upon one; on the other, a Japanese man. Both had brilliant touches of red in the costume. Such panels are priced at 2.98 and 3.98 at Wyckoff's, and can be most dramatic. Pretty too, are the folding silk-covered letter baskets, applied in the Oriental motif. In our store we also have some impressive wall plaques of black lacquer with painted design inlaid with touches of mother of pearl. Small sizes are 10.00 each; large sizes, 25.00.

For those who admire the unusual, what about those monkeys, hand carved in Africa of rare and lovely woods, depicting the legend, "See no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil." A set of three large monkeys is 10.00, smaller sets are 3.50.

Prettiest Christmas stockings I've seen in ages are plushy red, cuffed in furry white fabric, large enough to hold numerous small gifts or greeting cards. The small size is 89c; the larger size, 1.98. The latter would make a perfect decoration for the front door during the holidays... Also for Christmas are the unusual brackets, priced at 1.50, that slip over any candle and settle firmly at the top of the candlestick. These are gilded wire, curved into many loops from which you can dangle colorful Christmas ornaments... Don't ever say we didn't coax you to shop Wyckoff's with eyes wide open for all the new, wonderful things.

A. M. Price Honored On Birthday

It's sometimes hard to locate an eight-year-old for a surprise birthday party in his honor, but most people expect an 88-year-old to stay within calling distance. Not, however, A. M. Price of Washington St., East Stroudsburg, whose wife had planned a surprise family dinner for his birthday yesterday.

The surprise finally came off at the Penn-Stroud Hotel but not until after a period when it seemed uncertain who was going to be surprised. Going down to the river to supervise taking the boat and float out of the river, "A. M." remained so long not only supervising but rolling barrels and toting his end that it seemed for a while as if the party might have to go on without him. However, he made it in time.

Sharing birthday honors were his sister, Mary Price Gravel, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Joseph Price, both of Barrett Twp., who also had birthdays this week with three birthday cakes climaxing the dinner.

Also present were three daughters, Mrs. Walter Keve, of Cranford, N.J.; Mrs. Horace Westbrook, East Stroudsburg; and Mrs. Henry Sams, State College, with Walter Keve and Dr. Sams; His brothers: Joseph Price, Raymond Price Sr., and his wife, and nieces and nephews Ned Price of Lansdale, Mrs. Gordon Guthrie, Mrs. June Young, and Mrs. Harold Gravel.

Lions Stun Baltimore, Eagles Win Late Score Gives Pius X 7-0 Victory

Field Goal Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE Detroit Lions, winless in three tries, upset the world champion Baltimore Colts 30-17 Sunday and left the Green Bay Packers and Chicago Bears in a virtual tie for the Western Conference lead in the National Football League. The Houston Oilers and Denver's Broncos retained their leads in the two divisions of the American League.

While the Lions cracked the Colts with the help of three tremendous field goals — for 52, 51 and 40 yards — by Jim Martin, the Packers beat their Milwaukee whammy with a 41-14 job on the San Francisco 49ers. The Bears, down 17-10 at the end of three quarters, rallied for a 24-24 tie at Los Angeles against the winless Rams.

Third Straight

It was the third straight success for the Packers since an opening upset by the Bears, who now are 3-1-1. Baltimore is third at 3-2.

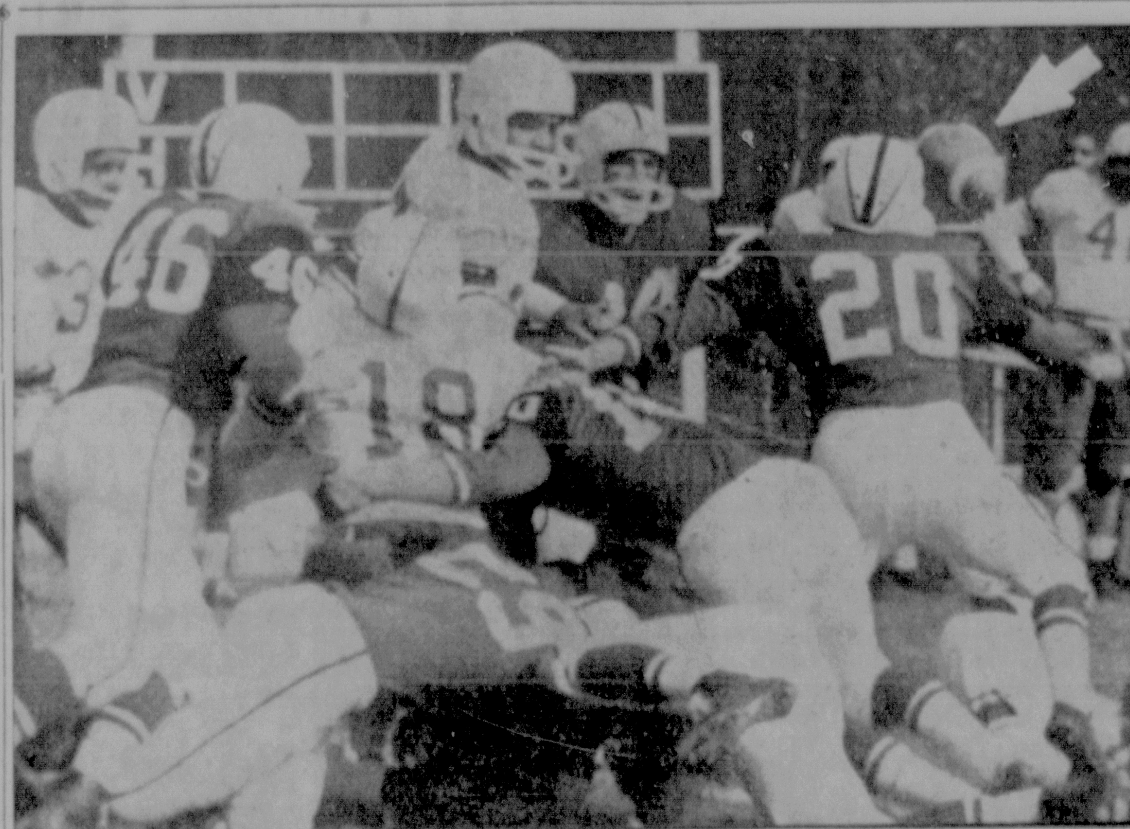

In the Eastern Conference of the NFL, the Philadelphia Eagles moved past Cleveland into second place behind idle New York by beating the Browns 31-29 on Bobby Walston's 38-yard field goal with 15 seconds remaining. The Washington Redskins tied Pittsburgh 27-27, on Bob Khayat's 43-yard field goal with 44 seconds left, and the St. Louis Cardinals defeated winless Dallas 12-10, on an 18-yard field goal by Gerry Perry with 43 seconds remaining. In the other NFL games:

Denver, down 24-0 in the third period, whipped the Boston Patriots 31-24 to retain the Western Division lead in the AFL. Houston clobbered the second place New York Titans 42-28 to hold onto the eastern lead. The Buffalo Bills rapped the Oakland Raiders 38-9 in the only other game scheduled.

Second Kick

Martin's second field goal against the Colts broke a 17-17 tie, and he added the 4-yard boot after his tackle jarred the ball loose from Baltimore's Johnny Unitas. Dick Lane added an 80-yard scoring return after intercepting a pass by Unitas, who flpped for both Colt TDs and extended his string of scoring passes through 42 games.

Zeke Bratkowski's passing triggered the Bears' comeback, twice hitting Angelo Coia for TDs in the final period.

Cheyney Game Forgotten Says ESSC's Gregory

EAST STROUDSBURG State College's football team and its coach Jack Gregory are not basking in the glory of their 58-0 win over Cheyney Saturday at Normal Hill.

"We forgot about the game as soon as it was over," said Gregory, "and started thinking about the Bloomsburg game next week."

Gregory was so concerned about Bloomsburg, one of the three undefeated teams in the state, that he sent both of his assistant coaches, Charlie Reese and Mort Hockheiser to scout the Bloomsburg-Manfield game, while he and Kenny Welgoss, a student coach, ran the Warriors against Cheyney.

The Warriors needed only six plays and four minutes and 52 seconds to build up a 13-0 lead.

Parade Starts

Don Schleicher intercepted a Eugene Johnson pass on the Cheyney 40 with less than a minute gone in the game and three plays later halfback Frank Lupin banged over from the three to score his first of three touchdowns.

A recovered fumble on the following kickoff put the Warriors in business again and on the sixth play the Warriors attempted in the game, quarterback Bill Lewis fired a 19-yard scoring strike to end Moe Barber.

Seven touchdowns later, with 3:19 seconds left in the game freshman Bobby Gross raced 17 yards off tackle to score the most significant touchdown of the game. Gross' six points hiked the Warriors 19-0 output to 206 points, a school record for single season scoring. Russ Rogers' conversion boot put the record at 209.

The 1926 team held the former mark of 205 points, including a 99-0 win over Lock Haven.

Lupin Leads

Lupin, a former East Stroudsburg High griddier, who played less than a half for the Warriors last season before injuries sidelined him, carried 11 times and picked up 135 yards. His three touchdowns effort brings his season scoring mark to 30 points, high for the Warriors.

Bill Race, who scored the Warrior's third six pointer, on a 26-yard slant near the end of the first period, averaged 9.3 yards on 12 carries.

Sixteen backs carried the ball for East Stroudsburg for 351 yards and two passes added another 28 yards to the Warrior offensive total.

The Warriors completed all five passes they attempted but three of them were to Cheyney receivers. Lewis was nicked for two interceptions and freshman Charles Sierer, a third.

Heavy Air Traffic

Cheyney, with Johnson doing the tossing, tried 27 passes, completed six for 56 yards and had three interceptions.

Johnson, a 210 pounder, quarterbacks the Chargers on offense and is a tackle on defense.

The Warriors third nationally ranked rushing defense, turned in its second best performance of the year, allowing Cheyney only five yards. Against Shipensburg, East Stroudsburg gave up a minus six yards.

Joe Heverin and Ed (Road Block) Becker along with Dick Wolslayer piloted the defensive line, the "Stingy Seven."

Heverin made five individual tackles, Becker four and Wolslayer three but it was Mel Fager, who fills in for Wolslayer, who led the team in individual tackles, with six. Fager also broke up two passes.

Jake Platt and Walt Snyder were both injured on the same play. Platt was accidentally kicked in the groin in a pile-up and Snyder suffered a cut on his leg that required two stitches to close. Both will be able to practice today.

Nazareth Wins In Fourth

Pen Argyl Played Three Period Upset But Loses

PEN ARGYL High had an upset in the making for three periods Saturday but fell under two successive Nazareth touchdowns, to drop a 14-6 thriller.

The Lehigh-Northampton League clash was witnessed by more than 3,000 fans at Pen Argyl's Memorial Stadium.

During a brisk and cloudy afternoon, the Green Knights struck for an early touchdown and held the lead until the invaders scored on the first play of the last period. Late in the same period, the visiting Blue Eagles made good advantage of another opportunity to tally their second touchdown to all but settle the contest.

Hewitt Scores

Bill Hewitt, the Green Knights leading ground gainer, ripped left tackle from four yards out to push Pen Argyl into the lead as the first period was closing.

Except for portions of the fourth stanza, Pen Argyl completely dominated play. Unofficially the Knights under head coach Dick Wolford gained 181 yards on the ground against the Blue Eagles 52. In passing, Nazareth gathered 91 yards in completing four passes out of ten, while the home collected 62 yards in seven successful passes out of 11 thrown.

Wolford had high praise for his team despite the loss. The youthful coach said he was "satisfied on the performance of the club."

Looked Good

"We looked real good," he said, "I only hope they (the team) can keep it up."

"They played it cool (Nazareth) and capitalized on a few breaks," the mentor added.

The Green Knights had been pre-game underdogs to the highly-touted Nazareth team. The Blue Eagles boast of one of the league's best runners in Jeff Marsh but a strong Knight defensive unit held the invaders

Kist Not Happy With E-Burg Line

JACK KIST, who has been worried about the speed of his line all season, was even more worried, after his East Stroudsburg High team dropped a 27-6 decision to Wilson Boro Saturday on the road.

"Our line is big," says Kist, "but it just doesn't move. Wilson outcharged us all day."

Kist added that he would make some changes in the line to add speed. "I don't care if we have to put 130-pounders in there," he said, "we have to have someone who can move."

Only two linemen, Earl Metzgar and Vince Patella, pleased Kist with their play. Metzgar made his share of stops," said Kist "and Patella was in on almost every tackle."

Secondary Tackles

"Our secondary, Jim Steele, Hal Myers, Brian Farris and Jack Fellman, had to make too many tackles," Kist added.

Wilson Boro jumped to a 6-0 lead after it recovered a fumble on the East Stroudsburg 27, on the first play the Cavaliers ran.

Five plays later, a Roger Boger to Joe Matyas pass was good for 17 yards and six points.

Brian Farris collected the Cavaliers only score, an 82-yard kickoff return in the third quarter.

Two Called Back

Farris had a 22 yard touchdown run called back in the first half because of backfield in motion and Harry Van Vleet ran 15 yards with a blocked punt in the second half for a score, only to have an offside penalty nullify the touchdown.

And a fourth down pass from punt formation dropped by Farris "would have gone for at least 40 yards," said Kist.

The loss, the second of the season, snapped East Stroudsburg's win streak at two and also broke Myers' scoring string. Myers had scored in all of the Cavaliers' previous games.

In nine carries, Myers averaged 7.7 yards and Farris gained 60 yards in 13 tries.

The Cavaliers managed only six first downs, while Wilson collected 17. East Stroudsburg completed only one of seven pass attempts.

TD Comes On Caracio's 5-Yard Run

BANGOR — Tony Caracio blasted five yards for a fourth-period touchdown Sunday to give Pius X of Roseto a 7-0 win over previously unbeaten Lansdale Catholic.

Some 2,000 people in Bangor's Memorial Park saw Lansdale fall to capitalizing on its only two scoring chances.

Pius' Dave Paolini fumbled the opening kickoff and Lansdale recovered on the Pius 37. But four running plays gained only seven yards and the Royals took over on downs.

Lansdale got its second break in the second quarter when it recovered a fumble on the Pius 34. But again the Royals held and took the ball away.

Stage Set

Pius set the stage for its score on the second play of the fourth quarter, when guard Donato Caboplane intercepted a Lansdale pass on the visitors 30 and returned the ball three yards.

Mike Caboplane, Donato's brother gained one yard on a crack at the line and a 15-yard penalty moved the ball to the Lansdale 11.

A two-yard gain by Tony Mondello and a personal foul against Lansdale pushed Pius to the five.

Pass Falls

George Giaguinto passed to Alex Kristoff in the end zone on third down but Kristoff could not hold on to the ball and on fourth down Caracio, the Royals' leading ground gainer and scorer bulled in for the score.

It was the third straight win for Pius and its fifth against one loss this year and the 16th win in 17 games.

Mike Caboplane plunged off right tackle for the extra-point.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day in a beautiful puzzle designed to speed out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
